

Robin Anderson, Content Developer, Certified Interpretive Planner

As an Interpretive Planner, Robin's partnership-building and facilitation skills enable her to work closely with clients to realize their vision. Her people skills and attention to detail come into play in her role as Project Manager. A Content Developer with APA since 2010, Robin loves finding the right words to communicate ideas. She excels at collaborating with members of the design team to ensure that stories, images, objects and interactive components harmonize to create compelling experiences. Robin is a published author, has significant experience working with Indigenous communities, and has worked in community development around the world.
