Seattle, WA

Nature—the Original Playstation

Woodland Park Zoo has instilled a love for nature since 1899. With an indoor facility just for children, the Zoo inspires young visitors to take action.

APA worked with the Zoo and architectural partners to plan and design a space for young children to connect with the natural world, letting them participate in nature-themed activities and whole-body explorations of animals and habitats. Children can climb a mountain, slide through a forest, investigate the depths of a savanna watering hole and traverse a rope bridge suspended in a tree canopy. At the Nature Exchange, children continue their outdoor exploration through ethical collecting and bartering.
