Play Around the World

For decades, the National Children's Museum has inspired children to care about and change the world. With the Our World Gallery, children can explore our planet's geographical and cultural landscape, helping them better understand the world and their place in it.

APA worked closely with the Museum to develop a pedagogically sound concept that reveals the similarities and celebrates the differences among people, places and cultures around the world. Families can listen to the sounds of a streetscape in Mumbai and Paris. They can learn traditional dances performed during festivals in China and Spain. Families can discover how children in Madagascar and Zimbabwe get to school. Connection to—and enjoyment of—others can provoke visitors to spark global change.
