Citizen Scientists

TELUS World of Science – Edmonton (TWOSE) welcomes over half a million visitors a year. The Environment Gallery connects visitors with local scientists to make big ideas relevant.

APA collaborated with TWOSE to plan and design a complete renewal of the Environment Gallery, challenging visitors to develop their own viewpoints on environmental issues. Visitors become citizen scientists by experimenting with real objects and using interactive media. They examine Arctic ice cores to find evidence of climate change, create tornados onscreen and get their hands wet in the aquatic touch tank. In the Gallery's highlight—the Science on a Sphere theater—visitors discover global environmental issues. They gain an appreciation for their place within the environment and for science's role in showing us the complexities of our world.
