

OSU 150 at the Oregon Historical Society

Portland, OR

150 Years to Celebrate, 150 Stories to Share

For its 150th anniversary, Oregon State University didn't just want to celebrate its past achievements, it also wanted to reflect on what distinguishes it from other universities and imagine OSU's role in shaping the future.

APA collaborated with OSU staff, the Oregon Historical Society and exhibit fabricators to develop an object-rich exhibit that lets visitors feel the impact of OSU's contributions and relevance, in Oregon and around the world. Visitors explore 150 intriguing stories about OSU, discovering what is at the core of the University—a transformational learning, teaching and research community. Through personal stories, memories, objects, images and AV, visitors get the big picture of how OSU has—and continues to—set itself apart.
