

Gulf of Georgia Cannery

Richmond, BC

It's All Connected

The Gulf of Georgia Cannery explores the history of the region's fisheries. Parks Canada (PC) and the Gulf of Georgia Cannery Society work together at the site to preserve Canada's West Coast fishing history, telling the story of how innovative Indigenous fishing practices led to a booming industry experienced differently by people of different backgrounds.

APA worked closely with PC and the Society to re-envision the Cannery's visitor experiences, taking advantage of its historic setting on the banks of the Fraser River. Engaging with artifacts and hands-on activities set alongside the active Steveston Harbor, visitors discover their own connections to the Cannery and the fish that have drawn people to this site for centuries.
