A Storied City

Centered on the confluence of the Red and Assiniboine Rivers, Winnipeg has been central to vibrant communities and trade for millennia, from an Indigenous homeland to a city of newcomers.

APA worked with The Manitoba Museum's curators to take visitors on a personal journey through the city's urban fabric—past and present—using a variety of media. A digital touch table allows visitors to journey through time by overlaying historical and modern mapping data. The mini-theatre immerses visitors in a timeline of Winnipeg's development. Hundreds of artifacts contextualize the significant cultural shifts that accompanied that development. The result is a rich, personal journey through Winnipeg's diverse history.
