Ever-Evolving Identities

Chinese Canadians have made invaluable contributions to the province of British Columbia and have suffered great injustices along the way. Until now, there has been no dedicated museum in Canada to tell these stories, both light and dark.

APA is working with museum staff and stakeholders to develop the new Chinese Canadian Museum, opening July 1, 2023. In the museum's inaugural gallery, diverse Chinese Canadian voices invite visitors to engage with stories of journey—from workers seeking their fortune during the Gold Rush to recent immigrants finding a sense of belonging in a new country. Temporary and permanent galleries will build on this theme, highlighting ever-evolving Chinese Canadian identities while engaging visitors in interactive cultural experiences.
