

Central Arizona Project Water Education Center

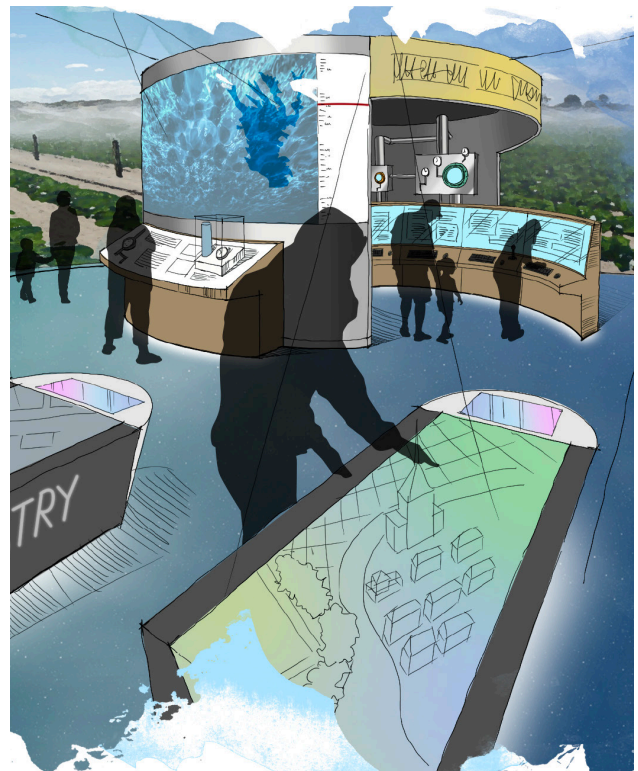

Phoenix, AZ

Arizona's Water Wonder

The Central Arizona Project (CAP) carries Colorado River water thousands of miles across the desert to the communities of central and southern Arizona. CAP staff want a visitor center to help visitors gain an understanding of this incredible water delivery system.

Guided by extensive engagement with CAP staff and stakeholders, APA is developing experiences for the new center. Interactive displays will invite visitors to get hands-on with different parts of the system as they take on the role of a maintenance worker or engineer. Large-format graphics and detailed models will highlight the immense scale and innovative engineering of CAP infrastructure. Visitors will leave with an appreciation of the system's history, operations, and relevance across Arizona.
